

TARIFF BILL IN ON MONDAY

Belief That Conference Report
Will be Considered

THEN IN BOTH HOUSES

Taft's Dinner Beneficial—Better Understanding All Around—Free Hides
Issue Still Serious Stumbling
Block Before Committee.

Washington, July 23.—Following on the conference at the White House last night the indications about the Capitol yesterday were favorable for an early report from the tariff conferees. It was given out from high sources that the report might be completed Saturday. This would result in its consideration in congress Monday. It is expected the Republican conferees will be able to finish their work by tonight, but it will be necessary to submit the report to the full conference committee, including the Democrats—and this will carry the matter over one day longer.

Something approximating to the programme of the President will be evolved by the conferees, according to the best information. Many conflicting reports were at first as to the result of the meeting at the White House Wednesday night. But the most reliable statement was that the discussion had not been in vain, and had resulted in advancing the bill in the direction of enactment. It was said the President laid before the conferees and other guests his programme substantially as he laid it before the House opponents of free raw materials who appeared before him the other day. He said he saw no reason why free hides, free oil, free iron ore, with low duties on lumber and coal, and reduced duties on leather and shoes could not be obtained. In turn he was told what the difficulties were in the House and Senate in the way of getting his programme through. He was told especially that he could not get free hides through the Senate. The best of feeling prevailed it is declared.

Senator Cummins of Iowa, one of the Senate insurgent leaders, breakfasted with the President, and laid before Mr. Taft his views as to what ought to be done in the way of downward revision. He took the position that reductions on raw materials were not adequate, and that unless there were reductions on manufactured goods also he could not vote for the conference report. It is learned that Mr. Taft in a general way shares this view.

The conference set to work yesterday to try to work out the bill in light of what Mr. Taft had said Wednesday night.

The conferees have decided that the customs court should be established in Washington instead of New York. An effort was made at Wednesday night's dinner, it is said, to have President Taft agree to a two-years' limitation of the corporation tax, and he declined to do so. This matter was gone into at the time the tax was suggested, and it was then decided that no time limit should be placed upon the measure. Certain adherents of the income tax who voted for the corporation tax as a substitute would not have lent their support to the measure with the time limited to two years. The President proposes that these senators shall be protected.

Speaker Cannon put a stick in the spokes of the administration wheel again yesterday afternoon by giving out that he thought it impracticable to put through a reduction which would permit reductions in leather goods and shoes before the House point. This is looked on as equivalent to trying to block free hides.

To Go Back to Ireland.

Chicago, July 23.—Ella Gingles will be sent back to her home in Ireland, leaving Chicago next Wednesday, according to present plans. This decision was reached at a conference last night of those who befriended her.

"CHICK" EVANS SOLD.

Former North Bennington Boy to Play
With Boston Nationals.

Announcement has been made by the Hartford Times that "Chick" Evans, a former North Bennington boy, will play with the Boston Nationals next season. The amount is as follows:

Chickering Evans, one of Hartford's best pitchers has been sold by Owner James H. Clark to the Boston National team for $25,000. Evans will remain through the season with the Hartford club, and if he has good support behind him will go to Boston in the fall with an enviable record behind him.

"Chick" Evans is one of the most youthful of the pitchers for whom National league managers have paid a good price and his professional baseball experience has been entirely with the Hartford team which he joined at the beginning of the 1908 season. "Chick" was born in Arlington, Vt., and will be 21 years old in September of this year.

The clever young pitcher was one of Tom Dowd's "discoveries" and was signed when Dowd took up the year. "Chick's" career began when he was a student at Burr and Burton seminary at Manchester and he pitched three years for his school team. Then he joined the semi-professional team at Housie Falls, N. Y., which place has been his home of late years. One season with the Housie Falls team made Evans good enough for Dowd to bring to Hartford.

"Chick" had done good work for Owner Clark and most of Evans' last season have been largely contributed to by poor support behind him. He pitched a world's record game against Bridgeport July 22 last year, allowing no hits, no passes and hitting no player.

Another deal has also been made between Owner Clark of the Hartford team and President John Dwyer of the Boston Nationals whereby Hartford has purchased the services of Pitcher Thomas F. McCarthy. Mr. Clark declines to make public the price he paid for McCarthy but says it is not as much as he gets for Evans and the Boston newspapers story of giving Evans and $300 to boot for McCarthy is all but true.

"I wouldn't trade Evans even for any pitcher on the Boston team," said Mr. Clark today.

McCarthy, however, is quite some pitcher, so it is said, and he has arrived in Hartford with his wife.

BRIDE SAW HIM DIE.

Lawyer Drowns as His Young Wife Looked On.

La Jolla, Cal., July 23.—A honeymoon ended sadly last evening when a bride of a month stood on the beach and watched her husband washed away to death by a treacherous breaker. George B. Orr, attorney for the Santa Fe of Atchinson, Kan., was the bridegroom who died as his young wife looked on.

The pair were the guests of the family of Samuel Cline of San Diego. With Mr. Cline Mr. Orr went swimming here. Orr was warned it was dangerous to go out into the breakers at this point, but laughed, as he was a strong swimmer, and plunged into the surf. After a short swim he came ashore and lay on the sand talking with his wife and Mrs. Cline.

The women moved back a little as the tide was coming in. Orr said he would lie there until the waves carried him out for another swim. A few minutes later the biggest breaker of the afternoon broke and covered him, and the receding water carried him out. He was caught by the undertow and disappeared.

MEMORIAL TOWER.

Duplicate of Old Fort Dedicated at Pemaquid Beach.

Pemaquid, Beach, Me., July 23.—A memorial tower on the site of Castle Pemaquid, a part of old Fort William Henry, was dedicated here yesterday, residents of three states participating in the exercises. The tower is an exact reproduction of Castle Pemaquid, which was built in 1690 under the direction of Sir William Phillips of Massachusetts, first American governor of the colonies. The fort was erected by order of the British Sovereign for the protection of the British colonists from the attacks of the hostile Indians.

The participants in yesterday's exercises were Gov. B. M. Bernal and former Gov. Joshua L. Chamberlain of Maine, Robert Luce of Sonnetville, Mass., the Rev. Julian S. Cutler of Pawtucket, R. I., and the Rev. Charles F. Lee of Damariscotta, Maine. The memorial tower stands thirty feet high and was erected by the state. It will contain a collection of relics of historical value.

SUTTON SHOT IN TOP OF HEAD

Wound Could Have Been
Self-inflicted by

AWKWARD BEND OF ELBOW

So Annapolis Surgeon Says.—He Examined Wound, and Declares It Was Not Back of Right Ear, as Others Have Said.

Annapolis, July 23.—Lieutenant Edward S. Willing resumed the witness stand yesterday at the opening of the court of inquiry which is investigating the death of Lieut. James N. Sutton of Oregon. Henry E. Davis, counsel for Sutton's mother, continued the cross-examination of the witness from the point where he had left off Wednesday.

Willing according to his testimony, reached the scene of the tragedy in time to see Lieutenants Adams and Sutton in a light prior to the shooting. Mr. Davis took the witness over and over the scene of the fight between Adams and Sutton but could not materially shake the officer's story.

Lieutenant Willing is said to be related to the Astors of New York.

William I. Owens, the chauffeur who drove Sutton's party from Carrel hall to the marine camp on the night of the shooting, and Edward Griffith, the chauffeur who took a party of officers to camp just ahead of Owen's car were both on hand today to testify.

Major Leonard, the judge advocate, today issued an order not to allow any witnesses who had not been called with in 100 feet of the auditorium door where the court is sitting.

Mr. Davis read from the records of the former inquiry, bringing out some discrepancies in Lieutenant Willing's testimony. The witness said his present testimony was correct. "The former testimony was given at the time of the shooting and some of it was reckless," was the Lieutenant's explanation. Willing was at times defiant and answered the lawyer's questions in an indifferent manner at other times.

Mr. Davis handed a rusty, 32-calibre Smith & Wesson revolver to the witness and asked him if he could identify it as the one he picked up on the edge of the parade grounds the night Sutton was shot, as he testified. Willing looked the revolver over carefully and said it might be the same one, as the calibre and appearance of the weapon were the same.

Commander Hood showed the witness the rules in the navy blue book which pertained to Willing's duties as an officer of the day at the time of the shooting and asked him if he did not know he should have arrested anyone who was unruly. Lieutenant Willing said he did not recall whether or not he knew the rule at that time.

"Did you tell one of the officers to let Adams go ahead and knock Sutton's head off?" asked Mr. Davis.

"Yes, I think I made such a remark," Lieutenant Willing answered.

Lieutenant Willing was excused and Surgeon George Pickrell, U. S. N., who was in charge of the naval academy hospital on the night of the shooting, testified. Doctor Pickrell heard the shots and hurried to the scene. He examined Sutton's injuries and made a careful examination of the bullet wound in his head after death. The bullet entered Sutton's head on the top, near the back and a little to the right, the witness said. This has been a much disputed point as other physicians have testified that the wound was just back of the right ear. Doctor Pickrell stated that the shot was fired within two feet of Sutton's head and in his opinion could have been self-inflicted. He said that Sutton's body showed no other injuries which might have caused his death.

Surgeon Pickrell said that he treated Lieutenants Adams, Osterman Roelker and Potts at the hospital shortly after the shooting. They had insignificant injuries he said. They were all very much excited and talked about the shooting. Lieutenant Adams and Osterman as he recalled it told him about the fight and said Sutton had shot himself while lying on the ground.

The witness identified a belt and holster which he said was strapped on Sutton's leg the night of the tragedy. Col. Charles A. Doyen service officer of the marine corps at Annapolis at the time of the Sutton affair and who still holds the post was the next witness.

A Clean Head Means A Cool Head

Good Thing to Know in Warm Weather.

Better to know what will make the head clean and cool.

Only one answer.

Parian Sage.

You've heard of it of course.

You know the Red Cross Pharmacy drug germ killer worth while.

You knew the Red Cross Pharmacy guarantees it to stop dandruff, falling hair and itching scalp in two weeks or money back.

That this wonderful hair rejuvenator, Parian Sage, turns harsh, faded, lustreless hair into silky, beautiful, lustrous hair in a few days.

You know that it is extensively used by women of refinement.

But you didn't know that it would keep the scalp nice and cool in summer. Well, now you know it, so get a large bottle and if you aren't satisfied get your money back—50 cents at The Red Cross Pharmacy.

Leading druggists everywhere in America now sell Parian Sage, and for your own good always remember that the girl with the Auburn hair is on every package. Made in America by Giroux Mfg. Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

ness called. Colonel Doyen told of Lieutenant Utley approaching him that night and telling him that Sutton had killed Roelker and then shot himself.

Mr. Davis objected to this testimony as hearsay. "I want to save time" said Mr. Davis.

"We have all the time we want," retorted Mr. Leonard.

"Of course," said Mr. Davis. "The United States marine corps is eternal. I am mortal."

Colonel Doyen described the incidents of the shooting as they had been reported to him by the young officers concerned in the fight. He said the officers had special leave on that night on account of the hot, but were supposed to be in the camp by one o'clock. Retreat was taken at this point.

MOVING A SEA LION.

Lively Work Shifting the Animal from One Pool to Another.

To make room for some hair seals from the coast of Maine at the Aquarium it was necessary to move the sea lion. This sea lion weighs about 300 pounds, a quick motioned powerful animal with teeth to beware of. They move him in a shifting box, this being an item of equipment used in aquariums and menageries.

This shifting box is about four feet long, three feet wide and two feet high, it has in each end a sliding door.

The only trouble about the use of a shifting box is to get the animal to go into it.

At one end of the pool with an incline leading up to it is a stone platform to which the seals climb to rest and sleep. When the time had come to move the sea lion they drained the pool of its water so that men could work in it.

Even without the water the sea lion could move about quickly. He seemed to know that he was to be moved, for he climbed up on the platform, looked over the railing and barked at the shifting box which he could see.

Then they got the box over the railing to the platform and shoved it with a bucket of water to make it slippery for the sea lion to slide into and then with one of the sliding doors open they tried gently to drive him in. Nothing doing. The sea lion has been moved twice before here and each time he was perverse. So he slid down the incline off the platform to the floor of the pool and then they carried the shifting box down after him and set it again with one door open for him there and baited it inside with a fish or two, but it didn't attract him at all.

Two men standing on the floor of the pool with poles tried to shove him but he bit at the poles and shied on, and when the men tried to stop him he swept past them with a rush and up the incline to the platform. Then they shoved him down from there again, and once more on the floor of the pool they worked him over again toward the shifting box; but still the sea lion didn't want to go in and they couldn't drive him in.

Then the men took a step that led to the sea lion's capture. They lifted over into the pool a loose screen door about seven feet long and five feet wide the screen part of the door being a stout lattice work of wire. Holding this door before them with one of its lengthwise edges resting on the floor, four men advanced with it and cooped the sea lion in. He threw himself against it in an effort to break through it but the four men pressed hard and there was no way out except through the open door into the shifting box and to the sea lion that seemed better than nothing and he went. In an instant the men who had been standing outside holding the top of the sliding door dropped it. Time, thirty minutes.

After that it was easy. Four men lifted the shifting box over the railing of this pool into which he was to go, and there they opened the sliding door and just slid the sea lion out into the water.

In this other pool there is at the center a solid massive table maple, six feet square and having heavy ponderous legs. Its top a foot or so above the water, forming a platform that the sea lion can rest upon.

At first sight this table alarmed him, but when some fish had been thrown into the pool for him and he had picked up one from under the table, brushing without harm to himself, against one of the legs, he calmed down, and then when a couple of the fishes were tossed on top of the table the sea lion, after a few minutes, lifted his head up to look at them, and at last he jumped up to get them, and since then he has made the table platform his own.

EXILES NOW IN ALASKA.

They Are Reported as Crossing From Siberia.

Seattle, July 23.—A special cable to the Post-Intelligencer from Nome, Alaska, gives information concerning the means used by the Russian political exiles who are believed to have successfully landed in Alaska, in affecting a passage across Bering Straits from East Cape, Siberia. According to information given the authorities at Teller, York and Port Clarence, small towns in Alaska, opposite East Cape, by fifteen deported Russians who were captured when attempting to re-enter Alaska, the exiles forced them to assist them in sailing from the natives and to aid them in crossing the strait. On July 1 a Russian steamer, Vladivostok, landed three hundred Russians at Nome. Half of them were paupers and were ordered deported, customs inspector Beagle fining the steamer $1,500. The steamer carrying the deported Russians left Nome July 9, going at once to East Cape. Upon arrival there the paupers were put ashore. Immediately, according to the tale told by the men now under arrest, they were impressed by the exiles who had escaped from the Yakutsk district fifteen hundred miles west of East Cape, in March, and were forced to assist in sailing natives' boats, in which to cross the Bering Straits.

HENEY SAYS TAWNEY'S WRONG.

Has Had No Money Except For Services Rendered.

Cordova, Alaska, July 23.—Francis J. Heney of San Francisco, who it is at Abercrombie Canon, fifty-five miles from the Copper river, made by telephone of the statement made in Congress by Representative Tawney regarding payments to him from the federal government. Mr. Heney said:

"I have not received a dollar in fees except for services rendered prior to the San Francisco graft cases. The delay in payments to me by the United States government was due to lack of funds, compelling a special appropriation by Congress. A fully itemized statement of all my accounts is in the hands of the United States attorney general."

ORCHARD BAPTIZED.

Gov. Steunenberg's Murderer Joins Seventh Day Adventists.

Boise, Idaho, July 23.—Elder Stewart a Seventh Day Adventist, yesterday baptized Harry Orchard, the self-confessed murderer of former Gov. Steunenberg of Idaho, who is in the penitentiary here. After the ceremony Elder Stewart made the following statement: "Orchard is a devout convert and feels his sins have been forgiven. He told me that he had fully determined to commit suicide if sent up for life, but that in his faith he had found consolation and was content to remain behind the prison walls for the rest of his life."

HOPE NOW FOR PERSIA.

London Times Sees Promise of Good Times.

London, July 23.—A despatch to the Times from Teheran says that present conditions promise more hope for Persia than anything that could have been produced by foreign advice or agency. Both Great Britain and Russia says the despatch, will be thankful to withdraw and let the Persians work out their own salvation. Russia will give further proof of her desire to hold aloof by withdrawing her troops from Tabriz and Kasvin as soon as the new administration has taken the reins of government.

BLUEJACKET DEAD.

Sailor From U. S. S. Vermont Dies in Hospital.

Boston, July 23.—One of the twenty-one sick bluejackets from the different warships of the Atlantic fleet died at the United States naval hospital in Chelsea early this morning. His name was Elmer J. Stronem. He was from Grand Rapids, Mich., and was a seaman on the battleship Vermont, one of the ships of the first division. He was operated upon at the hospital soon after arrival, but could not be saved. Death was due to diabetes.

JAPANESE WANTS CITIZENSHIP.

Steward in Navy Is to Fight His Case.

Norfolk, Va., July 23.—Namwo Beashu, a Japanese steward in the United States navy, yesterday was allowed an appeal to the United States circuit court of appeals by Judge Waddell from a decree of May 15, denying him American naturalization. The steward is assigned to the residence of Rear Admiral Tausig, commander of the Norfolk navy yard. According to his counsel, the Japanese will fight the case through the supreme court of the United States.

TAKES UP CANAL LIBEL CASES.

The Commission Holds Hearings in Paris.

Paris, July 23.—The first witness to be examined by the Rogatory Panama Canal Commission for the purpose of obtaining testimony in the Panama libel case, were M. BEAUX, who was president of the New Panama Canal company, and now connected with the management of the Credit Lyonnais, and M. LAMPRO, secretary of the Panama Canal company.

Pardon For Young Smith.

Des Moines, Ia., July 23.—The Iowa board of pardons yesterday recommended an unconditional pardon for Samuel Francis Smith, son of the author of the hymn, "America," who was convicted five years ago on the charge of perjury, larceny and embezzlement, and sentenced to the Fort Madison penitentiary for 11 years. Smith is, it is alleged, had appropriated the funds of several estates entrusted to his care. He was formerly a prominent resident of Daymond, Iowa, and had served as mayor. If Governor Carroll signs his pardon, Smith will leave for his old home at Newton Center, Mass.

SPANISH TROOPS MUTINY

They Refuse to Embark for Morocco

DISAFFECTION INCLUDED

An Entire Battalion—Finally Reduced to Submission, However—More Fighting With Moors Reported from Melilla.

Madrid, July 23.—At Barcelona, according to reports from that city, a riot broke out today among the troops about to embark for Melilla. An entire battalion revolted and threatened the colonel and other officers with their bayonets. Other troops were hastily summoned and the mutineers were disarmed.

During the night while the Spanish troops which are to reinforce the Spanish garrison at Melilla, the families of the soldiers surrounded the railroad station and charged the police, with the object of preventing the departure of their relatives. A desperate melee followed, in which the police used their swords and revolvers. At least a dozen persons were wounded and many others arrested. Stringent measures will be taken to suppress similar popular disturbances in connection with the departure of troops in the future.

Melilla reports the return of General Marina, commander of the Spanish forces there, from an inspection of the outposts. He says that the Moors are displaying desperate courage and are using modern weapons. He predicts a long and hard campaign.

A dispatch from Algiers brings the information that the natives of the Sok region of Morocco are preparing to join the Moors in front of Melilla.

The Spaniards of Melilla were reinforced today by fresh troops from Spain. The Moors got within 800 yards of Melilla during the fighting on Wednesday, but were finally driven back, leaving 104 dead on the field.

The civil governor of Bilbao, Spain at the request of a Biscayan committee, has authorized a meeting to be held on Sunday for the purpose of protesting against the Spanish-Moroccan war, on condition that it is not accompanied by a public manifestation. Nevertheless, processions are being organized and rioting is feared.

King Alfonso has cancelled all his engagements on account of the serious situation in Morocco.

Heavy fighting has been going on for the past ten days between the Spanish troops under General Marina and Moorish tribesmen at Melilla and the losses on both sides have been considerable. Today the first line of reserves was summoned to the colors.

Parliament will be asked to vote further credits, so that more reinforcements can be sent to Melilla. It is possible that General Weyler, formerly Spanish captain-general of Cuba, will be placed in supreme command of the Spanish force in Morocco.

The liberal press is joining in the popular protest against sending soldiers to the Rif coast, alleging that the war is solely for the purpose of protecting private mining interests. The newspapers demand the convocation of the cortes and a frank statement of the government's intention.

W. T. DONOVAN DEAD.

Was Well-Known Cigar Manufacturer of St. Albans.

St. Albans, July 23.—William Thomas Donovan, of Messenger street, died Wednesday night at 11:55 o'clock of disease of the heart complicated with hardening of the arteries. Mr. Donovan had been in ill health for about twenty months and had been seriously ill for the past three months. The funeral arrangements have not been made yet. Mr. Donovan was born in Flatbush, N. Y., February 15, 1862, and was therefore, 46 years old. He came to this city about eleven years ago and went into the business of manufacturing and retailing cigars in company with A. S. Dorfman. Later Mr. Donovan continued the business alone. June 19, 1906, Mr. Donovan married Miss Charlotte M. Finn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Finn, of this city, who, with three children, survive him. The
